- Our professional advisors.
- Other entities within our group of companies.
- In the event of a disposal of all or part of our business, the purchaser and its professional advisors.

How do we ensure the security of your personal information?

We have implemented appropriate technical and organisational measures to protect your personal information from being accidentally lost, used or accessed in an unauthorised way, altered or disclosed. In addition, we limit access to your personal information to those employees, agents, contractors and service providers who have a business need to know. They will only process your information on our instructions and are subject to a formal duty of confidentiality. Any third parties involved in handling your personal information will only do so for specific purposes and will be subject to contractual obligations of confidentiality.

In the event that we experience any intrusion of our information systems or otherwise suffer a breach of our data security, then the Group has in place specific procedures designed to deal with such a breach, including protecting the personal information within our control and, where we are legally obliged to do so, notifying you and the relevant authorities.

Please note however that despite our best efforts we cannot guarantee the security of information being exchanged over the internet and, where our website contains links to other sites plug-ins and applications that are not operated by us, clicking on those links or enabling those connections may allow third parties to collect or share data about you. Once you leave our website then we have no control over, and assume no responsibility for, the content, privacy policies or practices of any third party sites or services.

How long will we keep your personal information for?

We will only retain your personal information for as long as necessary to fulfil the purposes we collected it for, including for the purposes of satisfying any legal, accounting, or other mandatory reporting requirements. To determine the appropriate retention period we consider the amount, nature, and sensitivity of the personal data, the potential risk of harm from unauthorised use or disclosure, the purposes for which we process it, whether we can achieve those purposes through other means and the applicable legal requirements. To the extent data is held in connection with contractual rights and obligations, then we will also take into account any specific limitation periods that apply.

Will we transfer your personal information internationally?

There may be cases where we need to transfer your personal data overseas, including to destinations outside the UK and the European Economic Area (EEA). However, we will only transfer your data to another country where we are confident that an appropriate degree of protection will be provided.

In particular, we will only transfer your personal data to countries that have either been deemed to provide an adequate level of protection for personal data, or where there are specific contractual clauses in place to protect the transfer of your data. For more information about how we use approved Standard Contractual Clauses, please contact us using the details provided below.

What are your legal rights in connection with your personal information?

Under the GDPR you have certain rights in relation to your data which are listed below. However, please note that not all of these apply in all circumstances:

- Right of access: subject to certain exceptions, you have the right of access to your personal information that we hold. However, please note that if you are requesting access to your data then in order to protect the rights of others we may require you to validate your identity before we can release that information to you

- Right to rectify your personal information: if you discover that the information we hold about you is inaccurate or incomplete, you have the right to have this information rectified (i.e. corrected).
- Right to be forgotten: you may ask us to delete information we hold about you in certain circumstances. This right is not absolute and it may not be possible for us to delete the information we hold about you, for example, if we have an ongoing contractual relationship or are required to retain information to comply with our legal obligations.
- Right to restriction of processing: in some cases you may have the right to have the processing of your personal information restricted. For example, where you contest the accuracy of your personal information, its use may be restricted until the accuracy is verified.
- Right to object to processing: you may object to the processing of your personal information (including profiling) when it is based upon our legitimate interests. You may also object to the processing of your personal information for the purposes of direct marketing and for the purposes of statistical analysis.
- Right to data portability: you have the right to receive, move, copy or transfer your personal information to another controller when we are processing your personal information based on consent or on a contract and the processing is carried out by automated means.

In the event that you wish to exercise any of the rights identified above, then please get in touch using the contact details provided below.
